BOOK INFORMATION

Osip Mandelstam (translated by Bernard Mearns)
Fifty Poems
Persoa, $11.95

As a poet, a subversive, and a Jew, Osip Mandelstam earned the hatred of Stalin, who persecuted him and finally ordered his death in a labor camp in 1938. Mandelstam was part of the flowering of modern Russian poetry in the 1920s, and preserved his faith in high artistic standards while the Soviet government sought to exercise political control over literature. His extraordinarily rich, allusive, and pure lyrics meditate on the noble culture of the past and on the nightmarish violence of the present.

Mandelstam's famous poem mocking Stalin, which guaranteed his death, is a classic of 20th-century dissident literature.
